Table Revue

Winners were announced today at the thirteenth annual apple show of the Gettysburg National bank which opened Thursday and set a record with 305 entries, making it the largest show in the history of the event. Last year's show attracted 240 plates of fruit.

The show continues through today and Saturday with a party table arrangement revue set up by nine adult home economics extension clubs in the county forming a popular feature of the display. The bank lobby is decorated with fall flowers which, with the bright-hued apples, make a colorful sight.

The 305 plates of apples were judged Thursday evening by John U. Ruef, fruit extension specialist from State College, and the cash prizes were awarded on the basis of his placements in nine important varieties of apples.

Hampton Club Wins
Judging of the revue entries placed the Hampton club's table for arrangement for a Christmas party first and gave second position to the Thanksgiving table set by the York Springs club. The Hall-lowsen party table arranged by Greenmount club women placed third, while honorable mention went to the bridal shower arrangement set up by the Brunsdown club members.

The other competing entries were placed as follows: Barlow club, a table for a birthday party; Mt. Pleasant club, harvest party; Round Top club, football party; East Berlin, Armistice Day party, and Fairfield, a winter sports party. Besides the prizes awarded for plates of apples of various varieties, a prize was won by John Myers, Gettysburg R. D., for a big Wolf River apple as the largest apple in the show. The information will be laid before Justice of the Peace C. S. Straley, New Oxford. Alexander Rothberg, Philadelphia, has been charged before Justice of the Peace Robert F. Bell, Straban township, with speeding at 60 miles an hour with a truck. A state motor policeman from Gettysburg made that arrest.

RELIEF BOARD
HEAD ATTACKS
VOTE 'THREATS'Aumen Says Aid Will Be Granted According to Need

Stating that it has come to his attention that persons have made promises or threats to recipients of various forms of relief in Adams county, with a view to influencing their vote in November, James B. Aumen, chairman of the Adams County Board of Public Assistance, declared today:

"We want the people of this county to vote as they wish. Threats of politicians that persons will be dropped from the relief rolls or promises that grants will be increased or other persons put on the rolls will be unavailing. Relief will continue to be granted or refused in Adams county on the basis of need and eligibility alone."

He continued: "Politics never have been taken into consideration by this board in forming its policies or considering relief applications. There is no politics in the distribution of relief here and we want the people of the county to vote their own sentiments on election day. They need not act under any threats or promises made for political purposes."

Son of Union Officer
Presents Banner to Park Office

The flag that floated over the headquarters of Major General Winfield S. Hancock during the battle of Gettysburg has been received by the Gettysburg National Park and will be placed on display in the park museum, according to an announcement from the park office today.

The flag was presented by John W. England, former sergeant on the New York city police force. Upon the formation of the Grand Army of the Republic, Mr. England's father, the late John W. England, a police captain of New York city, was a charter member. He also was commander of Hancock Post No. 259, G.A.R., New York City, and adjutant general of the G.A.R. in the state of New York.

The flag remained in the New York G.A.R. post until the death of all of the members. Captain England, the last survivor, died in 1918. During the period when Captain England was the only surviving member of the post he kept the flag in his possession and upon his death the tattered banner passed into the possession of his son, Sergeant England.

Major General Hancock was born on February 14, 1824, at the village of Montgomery Square, Pa., and died at Governor's Island, New York, February 9, 1886. He was buried at Norristown, Pa. Captain England was commander of Hancock post of the G.A.R. at that time and accompanied the body of General Hancock from Governor's Island to Norristown. It was at that time that the widow and family of General Hancock presented the flag to Captain England for Hancock post.

The flag remains in the original frame in which it was presented by the Hancock family.

LICENSE ISSUED
A marriage license was issued here Thursday afternoon to Marshall Taylor Walters, son of Mrs. Charles Walters, Biglerville, and Della Mae Shields, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William I. Shields, North Washington street.

Gettysburg Reformed Church to Open
150th Anniversary Program SundaySchool House Used for Worship in

The 150th anniversary of the founding of Trinity Evangelical and Reformed church in Gettysburg will open with special services on Sunday.

The exact date of the founding of the church is not known, other than that the church was in existence in the fall of 1790. It is probable that it was founded as early as the spring of 1790 if not in the fall of 1789.

The old log school house on High street was used as the first house of worship. It was a union church, St. James Lutheran church being the other congregation.

On Sunday, October 16, 1814, the first building, "The German Church," was dedicated. It stood on the present site. The German language was used at all services at least until 1832. The first church record was started in 1835 by the Rev. B. S. Schenck, who also began the publication of a denominational paper which later has become "The Messenger," the official paper of the Evangelical and Reformed church today.

The church school was organized on December 9, 1938, with George Guyer as its superintendent. One of the most outstanding of the pastors was Dr. E. V. Gerhart, who after he departed from Gettysburg became the president of Franklin and Marshall college and later the theological seminary at Lancaster.

On May 22, 1851, the cornerstone of the present building was laid. During the battle of Gettysburg the church was used as a hospital for the soldiers of the North and South. On January 10, 1892, the remodelled church, as it stands today, was dedicated. The towers in the front were added.

During the last ten years the church again was remodelled, modernized and beautified.

The church has been served by 17 pastors, the first being the Rev. George Trolldenier. The longest pastorate was held by the Rev. Dr. T. J. Barkley, who served the congregation for 33 years. Only two of the former pastors survive: The Rev. Dr. Paul Reid Pontius, Greensburg, and the Rev. Norman L. Horn, Baltimore.

The church school service on Sunday at 9:30 a. m. will be in the nature of a homecoming service when all former members are invited to attend. At 10:45 a. m. the sermon will be delivered by the Rev. George W. Richards, Th.D. LL.D., president emeritus of the theological seminary at Lancaster and first vice president of the Evangelical and Reformed church. The guest soloist will be Miss Letha Stoner.

Mrs. Earl J. Bowman, secretary of the county Sunday school association, will report on the state Sunday school association convention recently at Wilkes-Barre. There will be a trombone solo by William Keefeaver.

At 7 p. m. on Sunday the church school will observe its anniversary service. The address of the evening will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. Nevin C. Harner, of the chair of Christian education in the theological seminary, Lancaster. Other addresses will be made by T. J. Wine-brenner on "The Church School of Yesterday," and by the present superintendent, Elmer J. Yoder on "The Church School of Today." A children's chorus and an adult chorus of members of former days will provide the special music.

Other anniversary services will be held next Thursday and Friday evening and on Sunday, November 3, when the celebration will be brought to a close.

The church will be decorated by the Altar Guild for the occasion under the direction of Miss Alice Williams.

The anniversary committee comprises Harry C. Sanders, honorary chairman, and J. D. Lippy, Sr., Mrs. H. M. Hartman and Mr. Yoder.

DISPUTE SETTLED

The disagreement between Mrs. Bessie Bream and Mrs. Margaret May, both of Gardners R. 1, which brought a charge before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore alleging that Mrs. May hit Mrs. Bream over the head with a dishpan, was settled Thursday evening before the scheduled hearing in Justice Basehore's office. The costs were paid by the husband of the defendant.

National Plan Are Listed

Harrisburg, Oct. 25 (AP)—Draft authorities announced today a preliminary list of occupations considered part of the national defense program. The list was sent to local draft boards to guide them in deciding whether a man should be excused from military training because of the nature of his job.

William Mather Lewis, Pennsylvania director of selective service, emphasized the list has "significance in the national defense program but does not include all of the men who should be left in their civilian jobs."

"Nor does it mean that all men in these trades should be deferred," he added. "It will assist you (local draft boards) in insuring the best interests of the nation."

Occupations are grouped in four classes, ranging from those in which none of the presently employed can be spared to those in which shortages might occur if the rearmament program is expanded further.

Two Youths, in Auto
Stolen Here, Held

A telegram received by police here late this morning reported the recovery in Alexandria, Virginia, of the black 1940 model sedan of Walter T. Dunbar, 19 Hanover street, which was stolen Thursday evening from Chambersburg street. The message said two youths are being held for the theft.

The telegram stated that Alexandria authorities are holding Fred Martin, 19, and Donald Holland, 20, of no fixed address, for authorities. The youths have said they will fight extradition.

The boys, after being taken into custody in Alexandria, are said to have admitted the theft of the Dunbar car, the thefts of two other machines in and near Scranton and one at Utica, New York.

The Dunbar machine, parked with the keys and owner's card in it, was taken about 8 o'clock. The theft was reported to police later in the evening and motor police broadcast a description on the teletype system.

Chief of Police Glenn Guise said he will confer with the district attorney on the possibility of extraditing the pair to face charges here.

Officer Culp, Assaulted
By Thugs, Leaves Hospital

Borough Officer Charles W. Culp, Jr., who was shot through the left knee and beaten over the head by two thugs who are yet at large, was discharged from the Warner hospital today, exactly four weeks after his admission.

The policeman suffered a compound fracture of the skull and severe shock after being hit over the head with heavy blunt objects, possibly gun butts or an iron pinch bar found near the scene of the attack in Race Horse alley. The pair who attacked the officer—after being surprised in the act of breaking into the Majestic theatre after entering three other Carlisle street business places and robbing two of them—have not been apprehended. Police report the case is at a "standstill."

Hospital Report

He was injured in a fall from a tree while picking apples. Lewis Suchodolski, an apple picker from York, was admitted to the hospital Thursday evening and was discharged today. ITALIANS JOIN
HITLER'S MOVE
FOR NEW 'ORDER'Mussolini Expected to Confer With Petain

(By the Associated Press)
Italy stepped belatedly into Adolf Hitler's secretive and personally-conducted negotiations for a "new order" in Europe today with reports that Premier Mussolini will meet France's Premier Marshal Philippe Petain.

Another meeting between Hitler and Mussolini was believed likely, according to diplomatic sources in Bern, Switzerland—the same quarters which disclosed Hitler's mystery-shrouded meeting with Petain yesterday.

Nazi authorities meanwhile reported 62,000 German school children under 14 years of age have already been removed from Berlin "to escape recurrent losses of sleep" due to British R.A.F. bombing raids, and that another 30,000 will follow.

In addition, 42,000 children have been removed from Hamburg, in north Germany, which R.A.F. warplanes have attacked almost nightly. The Berlin exodus represents about 10 per cent of the city's 650,000 school children.

With Italian warplanes joining the assault on Britain for the first time, London underwent a series of violent, rapid-fire attacks today, suffering apparently heavy casualties.

More than a score were killed or wounded when a stick of bombs smashed two streets on a crowded London thoroughfare, exploding between the two cars on parallel tracks.

The motorman of one car was killed, and another stick of three bombs wrecked a bus, wounding the conductor.

Nazi quarters in Berlin said the raiders were dropping bombs of "heavier caliber" than usual.

Casualties in Berlin
The German capital also experienced the terror of bombs hurtling from night skies as British R.A.F. bombers, striking through low-hanging clouds, gave Berlin its second night raid in a row. The Germans acknowledged a number of casualties were inflicted and that "several fires" were set.

Germany's great northern port of Hamburg, where warships are under construction, also felt the lash of bombs marked "made in Britain," with a Nazi communique commenting tersely that "fires were set and other property damage resulted in the harbor and some sections of the city."

The London air ministry said R.A.F. warplanes stormed Berlin in a three-hour attack, flying low over the German capital and bombing the Pulitz-Strasse and Lehrter railway stations.

Poor visibility made it difficult to determine the damage, the air ministry reported, but British airmen, striking in successive waves, noted that a "huge fire" reddened the skies after a salvo of bombs hit a military objective. It was the R.A.F.'s 23rd raid on Berlin.

Italians Raid England
A German radio broadcast said the death toll in Berlin and Hamburg was "extremely high" and that "indiscriminate bombing of the German civilian population by the R.A.F. is vastly increasing."

Italian fliers aiding Germany in the aerial siege of Britain were reported to have established an air base on the English channel coast with a "tremendous" accumulation of men and materials. Fascist dispatches said Italian bombers have already come back with "marks of combat" from raids with their German allies.

On the diplomatic front, attention focused on the status of France as Premier Marshal Philippe Petain, 84-year-old chief of the vanquished republic, was reported en route to Vichy to inform his ministers on the outcome of a dramatic meeting with Adolf Hitler.

Amid strict official secrecy, some sources said France finally has agreed to a "limited" cooperation with Germany in return for easing of the Nazi yoke.

America Interested
In Berlin, authorized sources said the Hitler-Petain meeting in the German Fuehrer's railway car "somewhere in France" yesterday provided "new evidence that we are trying to put Europe back on her legs under axis leadership—independent of exterior influences which have been trying to stick their noses into affairs which don't concern them."

United States officials expected early developments which might have a vital effect on American interests and authoritative sources in Washington said plans were ready for United States protection of (Continued on Page Eight)

POLITICS HOT AS ELECTION APPROACHES

Many Speeches Mark Closing Weeks of Campaign

WOULD SERVE 4 YEARS

Washington, Oct. 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt told his press conference today that he intended to serve out the whole four years if he is elected to a third term.

The President made the statement in reply to a reporter's question concerning his speech in Philadelphia Wednesday night in which the President said his objective in the next four years would be to make work for every young man and woman "a living fact."

The reporter asked: "Does this mean that, God willing, you intend to serve the full four-year term if re-elected?"

"Of course," Mr. Roosevelt responded with a smile. He then volunteered that the newsmen could quote him directly on that, and added he was glad the reporter had put in "God willing."

(By the Associated Press)

Wendell L. Wilkie returned to New York and Pennsylvania for further speeches after telling an Akron, Ohio, audience last night that he wanted "to put an end to this era of bad feeling" between labor and industry.

At the same time, Henry A. Wallace contended in a Detroit address that because of the Roosevelt administration "there were millions more men employed and spending their wages" and appealed for workers to vote democratic in the interest of business growth.

Sharing the spotlight with principals in the campaign was John L. Lewis, C.I.O. president, who will speak over some 300 radio stations (NBC, CBS and MBS) from 9-9:30 o'clock (E.S.T.) tonight. Lewis, it is believed, may disclose his choice between President Roosevelt and Wilkie.

"With the help of the leaders, both of labor and of industry, I want to put an end to this era of bad feeling," Wilkie said.

Wallace said that republicans had adopted a slogan "what helps business helps you," but, he asserted that, in effect, they are telling the country that whatever helps the financial manipulators of Wall Street helps the worker and farmer.

Herbert Hoover made his first speech of the campaign at Columbus, Ohio, last night and asserted that the new deal is creating an economic system which "drifts down the suicide road of national socialism."

Urging Wilkie's election, the former president said that a third term would violate "an unwritten provision of our constitution." He asserted that Mr. Roosevelt had obtained extraordinary powers which point to "an American breed of totalitarianism" and charged that in the past seven years peoples' liberties had been shackled.

Secretary Ickes said at a press conference in Washington that Mr. Roosevelt's speech Wednesday in Philadelphia had stopped any Wilkie trend—"if there ever was a Wilkie trend."

Senator Charles L. McNary, the republican vice-presidential candidate, said in a speech at Kendallville, Indiana, that the administration's reciprocal trade program had "sold part of the farmers' domestic market down the river."

New York: Mayor LaGuardia declared that Wilkie "seemingly believes that anything goes in a campaign, that no responsibility attaches to a pledge, statement or promise."

Rochester, N. Y.: Raymond Moley, erstwhile administration aide who is supporting Wilkie, said, "give the executive the further power that this election involves and the congress will bow before him like wheat before a storm."

Philadelphia: Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, said the country was "just about to go under" when Mr. Roosevelt took office and that he led the nation to a "spiritual rebirth."

Seaford, Del.: Senator Bridges (R-NH) said that "the chance of keeping the peace is better under Mr. Wilkie."

Cleveland: General Hugh S. Johnson declared that if President Roosevelt is re-elected "war is certain and will come soon," and then predicted Wilkie's election.

The newspaper columnist and former N.R.A. administrator said that "no act" of Mr. Roosevelt "in the past two years is inconsistent with a purpose of war."

"TIGER'S NECKLACE" ENJOYED 2ND TIME

An appreciative audience of more than 350 persons witnessed the second presentation of the most recent play of the "Tiger" mystery series, "The Tiger's Necklace," which was staged by members of the Mask and Wig club of Gettysburg high school, Thursday evening, in the school auditorium.

With five members of the cast that scored a hit on Wednesday evening in the initial performance re-appearing Thursday evening, nine other members of the cast made their first stage appearances of the year. Miss Ruth A. McIlhenny and Miss Ruth Scott of the school faculty directed the double casts.

Robert Widder, as the high priest of the "Tiger cult," Rosetta McKendrick, as the Scotch housekeeper; John MacPhail, as "Sheriff Osgood"; Howard Sarrah, as "Major Jackson," and William Keefe, as "Mahmoud," repeated good performances turned in Wednesday evening.

dorff, as a Hindu servant; Betty Lou Saylor, as the wife of "Major Jackson"; Ruth Stover, as their daughter, "Ann"; Ernest Brindle, as "Ann's" sweetheart, and Catherine Marsden as the Tiger woman contributed to the thrilling situations and to the success of the production.

Bullet-F. and M. Clash To Draw Record Crowd

Victor of Game Here Saturday Probable Title Winner

One of Pennsylvania's greatest gridiron classics will be staged on Memorial field Saturday afternoon when Franklin and Marshall's undefeated and untied steam-roller collides with the Gettysburg college Bullets in the forty-eighth renewal of the long series which had its inception in 1890. The kickoff will be at 2:30 o'clock.

The winner of Saturday's fracas will be a heavy favorite to clinch the championship of the Eastern Pennsylvania interscholastic conference. F. and M. has already upset Muhlenberg while the Bullets smothered Drexel in conference tilts.

Local officials will be keenly disappointed if Saturday's crowd does not shatter all local attendance records. The advance sale of tickets has been unusually heavy. Upwards of 2,000 Lancaster fans and students will accompany the Diplomats here. The F. and M. band will also accompany the squad.

The crowd will be augmented by hundreds of college alumni who will be returning for the Homecoming activities to be observed over the week-end.

Add Bleachers
In order to accompany the anticipated throngs arrangements were made with Hanover high school authorities to borrow their temporary stands to be placed back of the goal posts at the west end of the field.

Throughout the long series between the schools surprises have come up time and again. Pre-game favorites have lost on many occasions and almost every game has been replete with thrills.

On the basis of their excellent record this season the invading Nevonians have been established heavy favorites. Coach "Al" Holman has what is believed to be the strongest F. and M. team in history which is saying plenty. Successive victories have been gained by the Lancaster outfit over Lebanon Valley, Dartmouth, Richmond and Muhlenberg with the result F. and M. is one of the few undefeated teams in the country.

One of the secrets of the success of the Diplomats team is the abundance of man-power. Coach Holman has a wealth of material and in all the games played thus far has alternated two complete teams whose performances have been on the same level with each other.

Lined With Veterans
An all-veteran line that charges hard and fast has been largely instrumental in F. and M.'s success. Suchena, Manotti, Kenny and Parkas form a combination of excellent ball carriers but the second backfield has proved itself just as capable.

Coach "Hen" Bream's outfit is in probably its poorest physical condition of the season. Hill, tackle, and Emanuel, guard, were victims of grip this week. Rog Smith, center, and Bob Freeze, end, are in none too good shape and it is doubtful if they can go the limit.

Despite those handicaps the Bullets fully expect to give their opponents a real battle and hope to add another to the string in the long series in which the underdog turned out to be the topdog.

As Coach Bream stated Thursday "if the boys tackle and block as they should it will be a typical game between the schools."

Lineup to Change
A revamped Bullet lineup will face the Diplomats. Murtoff will be at end if Freeze is unable to play. Dress will take over at tackle in place of Hill with Bailey replacing Emanuel at guard. If Smith is forced out at center Gene Haas will take over.

The probable starting lineups follow: Gettysburg, Burman, Freeze or Murtoff, ends; Dress and Schumaker, tackles; Debler, Bailey or Emanuel, guards; Smith or Haas, center; Hardy, quarterback; Hart and Sohndleitner, halfbacks, and Shoemaker, fullback.

Franklin and Marshall: Captain Holmes and Bell, ends; Shibanoff and D. Irwin, tackles; Simpson and Emery, guards; B. Irwin, center; Suchena, quarterback; Manotti and Kenny, halfbacks, and Parkas, fullback.

No Kiddie Seats
C. E. Bilheimer, athletic director, regrettably announced today that due to the limited seating capacity the Junior Bullets will not be admitted free on Saturday.

Sports Roundup

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
New York, Oct. 25—Preston Johnston of Southern Methodist, sure goes for the 92-yard stuff. . . He kicked that distance against Pitt, and galloped 92-yards to score against Auburn the next week. . . The Teddy Yarosz-Lloyd Marshall fight in Pittsburgh was nothing to write home about. . . Havey Boyle, one of the state boxing commissioners, wrote in the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette it was the dirtiest fight in the town's modern history. . . Will some smart fellow kindly tell us how in "L" the country's sports editors can rate that Minnesota team so low? . . . Horton Smith, the rected. . . Which may be why the guy pops off louder than anybody else in the Major leagues.

LOOKING AROUND

While the Gettysburg-Hanover clash at Hanover this evening will draw the most attention of local football fans, the Mechanicsburg-Waynesboro tilt at Mechanicsburg looms as the most important of the season in the Southern Pennsylvania circuit. Both are undefeated and the victor in tonight's tussle will undoubtedly clinch the league honors.

This afternoon at 3:45 o'clock the Gettysburg high school football squad and coaches were guests of Sydney Poppay at the Majestic theatre for a showing of "Knut Rockne, All-American." It is hoped that the pep talks given by the immortal Notre Dame coach may have their effect on the Maroons in the game at Hanover tonight.

This evening the entire football squad and coaching staff of Gettysburg college will be the guests of Sidney Poppay, manager of the Majestic theatre, at a showing of "Knut Rockne, All-American."

Saturday afternoon the Gettysburg Boys' Athletic club will try for its third straight victory when it clashes with the Carson Long Institute junior varsity at New Bloomfield. Since the opening game of the season on September 14 with Quincy, the Red Raiders have not been scored upon and they will be out to continue that record.

There is one prediction on this week's football forecast we sincerely hope we miss. Guess which one. The probable winners are listed first.

ting of a special brace on his injured knee and it is expected he will be able to return to the lineup almost immediately.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

A STORY OF SWEAT AND PAIN

SOME time ago the late Thomas Wolfe wrote a most interesting little book entitled: "The Story of a Novel." In it he reviewed the process through which he went to write a book. One of the significant sentences to me was this one—"It is a story of sweat and pain and despair and partial achievement."

Even after making such a statement, the writer said that he really knew very little about the art of writing a book—that he was only on his way. He died comparatively young—too young, for he was already a remarkable writer, whose very soul went into all that he wrote. I once had the privilege of talking with him, and as he talked—so earnest and intense was he, the sweat rolled from his forehead. He told me that his next book—only recently published, since his death—would be written from his very soul, with every ounce of energy and force, as well as of feeling, that he had within him. Critics say that he succeeded.

But going back to the phrase of Wolfe's—A Story of Sweat and Pain. Is not that just what life is? Wolfe found happiness in expression—perhaps the only happiness that he ever knew. After all, however, very little satisfaction can come out of life, through ease and idleness or through waiting expectantly for something to turn up. There must be sweat. There must be pain. Character comes about through no other ways or means.

Some of our work in this world has to be done through dire necessity, but most of it should be done for the pure joy of it—and that always means a lot of sweat in the process—and pain as well. No one ever achieved anything worth while without traveling over the road of disappointment, discouragement, and often periods of despair.

Effort, interest, incentive, and an ambition to excel and be of some account in the world, are what drive us all on and on. And if we do not go through sweat and pain—and that with courage and determination—we cannot hope ever to arrive anywhere.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Adventurous Mind."

FORCE

Who rules by force may never take his ease
Nor drop his dreary vigil day or night.
His very soul is pawned to dynamite,
To shells to use from skies or under seas.
He must forget there are such prizes as these:
Honor and pity, brotherhood and right.
His constant fear must be that greater might,
Which soon or late the crown from him shall seize.

Terrible power begets a terrible fear!

Never so strong is built the barricade
But what a stronger truth and right will rear.
Who rules by force lives every hour afraid.
Might holds the moment; right outlives the year,
So swiftly obsolete are weapons made.

The Literary Guidepost

By John Selby

"INK ON MY HANDS," by Clayton Rand; (Carrick & Evans: $3). "YANKEE REPORTER," by S. Burton Heath; (Funk: $3).

FLYING a cheery indorsement from William Allen White at or near its masthead, Clayton Rand's "Ink on My Hands" comes as the third, and in some ways the best, book about a country newspaperman this fall. It is one of those books which remind a man of a Christmas stocking; stuffed with good things all easily reached.

Mr. Rand spent his boyhood in poverty of two varieties. The first was Wisconsin poverty, the second Mississippi. His father, who was a man of parts; was also a lumber worker and life was a migratory affair for the Randes. Lumber was cut indiscriminately in those days and when an area was logged it was broke as well.

Our hero put himself through a number of schools, one or two of which he was very glad to leave. His Mississippi schooling was earned by selling peanuts, and he left for Harvard with a considerable stake. Harvard was managed through a campaign of kitchenware selling which was as successful as the peanuts. But all that kept Rand from flunking all at one point was discovering a split infinitive in an inscription above one of Harvard's gates — since corrected.

Our author decided to be a lawyer, and returned to Mississippi. Then one day he went to a town called Neshoba and began selling land; he owned the weekly newspaper almost before he knew what he was about, and he still owns it. Plus some others. The body of "Ink on My Hands" is the story of a country editor's growth as reflected in the things he was able to do for his town, for his state and eventually for the country as president of the National Editorial Association in 1936.

The other side of the picture can be had from S. Burton Heath's "Yankee Reporter." Heath is a Massachusetts native, brought up in Vermont. But his life is as a kind of political overseer for the New York World Telegram, and his book therefore deals with the over-publicized people who make the headlines because they live in the New York show-window. Mr. Heath's book is as different in style and content from Mr. Rand's as could be imagined and contains a good evaluation of metropolitan journalism as well as much fact about the great and those who think they are great.

The Road to Snani Lun

By RITA MOHLER HANSON

YESTERDAY: After a series of hair-raising adventures, lovely Lynn Britton has been rescued from a Chinese revolution by Temu Darin, from whom she was fleeing when she got herself into danger. Temu is taking her to a marriage with the Prince of Snani Lun; unfortunately for everybody Peggy Telford, a friend of Lynn's from America is also along and a little bit in everybody's hair as well. But Temu's plane is lost, and now there is firing in the village.

Chapter 24
Street Fight

Dawn had broken on a clear day. The street contained a few late stragglers running towards the gate. One ragged Chinese mother on crippled feet rushed up to Lynn, thrust her tiny baby into the girl's arms, and scuttled off with two bricks in her hands to join the fight.

Lynn took the infant inside and laid it on the blankets on the kang. It was a plump, rosy-cheeked little thing not old enough to be as grimy as two elder children that followed her, each dressed in a single garment, a wadded jacket. Their bodies from the waist down incredibly chapped and filthy.

"Look after them," Lynn directed Peggy blithely and hurried off again.

She saw a tall ladder leading to a parapet on the top of the wall near the gate they had entered the night before. On the parapet, bricks and boulders were stacked to ward off an attack on the gate. Lynn climbed for a view, and looking down on the outside, spied something she had not expected to see.

A party of the enemy with sword and pick and crowbar were busy digging a hole in the mud-brick wall while the attention of the villagers was drawn to the farther gate. Lynn called for help, and reaching for a stack of bricks, began hurling them down on the men.

Their officer, who was apparently preparing a charge of explosive for blasting, lifted a rifle and shot at her. Lynn dodged back but kept on with her offensive. She could cause some trouble to the party because they were working directly below her stand.

Temu, returning from the scene of action at the farther gate, stared at her incredulously for a moment and then bounded up the ladder and glanced over the wall.

At sight of him the leader suddenly became galvanized. He shouted and aimed his rifle as if shooting to kill. At the officer's shout the other men had dropped their tools and caught up their weapons. The bullets came fast and furious. Temu ducked and pulled Lynn down.

"They recognized you! They're after you!" she exclaimed. "Looks like it," he admitted. "You know there's been a fabulous reward offered for me dead or alive."

"But, how could anyone know you are here?"

He shrugged. "How does the bee find honey? How does the thief find money? The fools! They're just wasting ammunition now! If I could get that officer! There may be papers on him. I'd like to know who's back of this! You stay down!"

She heard an exchange of shots and in a moment Temu was leaning over the parapet. The men had scattered beyond range and were dropping into the canyon below, their comrades repulsed at the gates accompanying them.

Lynn rose and stood beside Temu. It was then she felt the wetness of her garments on her shoulder. Her eyes widened and she reached back. Temu put two hands on her wrist, and drawing her to him, looked over her shoulder.

"You've been shot!"

New Problem

Temu in one swift movement, stripped off her Mongol coat.

"I didn't feel it," she marvelled, going rather white from mental shock. As she sank down on a pile of brick, he unlatched the two buttons at the neck of her dress and looked at the wound.

"Just a scratch," he said with relief, and placing a clean, folded handkerchief over the spot, he helped her down the ladder. The moment they stepped inside the inn door, Temu directed Chan to bring hot water and the first-aid kit.

"Oh, this terrible country!" Peggy groaned when he explained what had happened. "Will she die?"

Lynn laughed. "Try to kill me." Temu placed a three-legged stool for Lynn before the window from which he punched the paper covering.

The baby, she noticed, lay peacefully asleep on the kang.

"Where are the other two children?" she asked.

"Thank heaven, they disappeared," Peggy answered. "What do you think you're going to do with this baby?"

"Baby?" queried Temu absently, tapping a dressing on Lynn's white shoulder.

"As if we didn't have enough trouble already Lynn went out and brought in a baby!" Peggy cried bitterly.

Temu straightened and looked towards the kang as Lynn explained about the whimpering infant.

"I only hope," he said in a troubled voice, "that its mother returns safely. Some of the Chinese women lost their lives. They fought like tigresses."

While Lynn changed to fresh garments, Temu and Chan sought the baby's mother among the inhabitants who were already evacuating the village. They could find no woman who had mislaid a baby.

Bula returned with them. Not content, it seemed, with seeing the enemy retreat, he alone had chased them into the canyon and secured certain information for Temu.

"Just a line on the insurrectionists," evasively answered Temu to Lynn's inquiry.

After a hasty breakfast they began their trek with the last of the villagers along the northern trail. Somewhere Chan, the resourceful, secured a shoulder yoke, and swinging their luggage, started off on his tireless, cheerful trot.

Bula carried the rifles and ammunition slung across his back and a mammoth sword he had taken from one of the enemy dead. Unused to being afoot, he walked awkwardly in huge Mongolian boots.

There was no one with whom to leave the baby. Temu, carrying the infant, amused Lynn inordinately.

"It's like seeing an eagle turned into a nursemaid," she chuckled. "Eagles have babies," he reminded her.

Peggy, mincing along on extremely high heels and using her red parasol as a cane caught his free arm. "You'll have two to carry pretty soon," she predicted. "My feet are beginning to hurt already."

He looked down anxiously at her thin, expensive slippers, and when they caught up with old man and his young wife trundling along, all their worldly goods piled high on a wheelbarrow, Temu asked if they had an extra pair of shoes to sell.

"He seems determined not to carry me," Peggy told the world at large.

"You wouldn't feel very comfortable flung across my shoulder, which is the only way I carry a damsel when she's reached your age," he assured her, handing the baby to Lynn while he examined a peculiar pair of Kreeklake buskins occasionally seen in western China. Peggy put them on and Lynn laughed.

"Looks as though you're wearing sugar-cured hams. If Sam could see you now!"

"I wish to goodness I were with Sam!" wailed Peggy.

"Then this little adventure has done some good," smiled Temu. "It's reconciled you to your husband."

"He wouldn't be walking me along the edge of the jumping-off place in shoes full of fleas while he carried a fat Chinese baby that belonged to Lynn," she retorted.

Temu grinned but said nothing.

Struck by an idea, Lynn turned sharply and put the baby in the little wife's arms. "You wantee baby?" she asked. "Can have." And she made signs that they could keep the child.

The young woman looked at the infant, shook her head, and she and her husband broke into an excited chatter.

Laughingly, Temu took back the child. "They are expecting a son of their own."

"Well," Lynn sighed. "It was a good idea while it lasted. They were the first Chinese family I ever saw without any children."

"Why didn't you put it in her arms and run?" Peggy demanded. "That's the way you got it."

Their queer procession started on its way again. Chan leading, and the one-eared Mongol on his tender feet, with their ball-and-chain gait, bringing up the rear. Temu urged them along as fast as he could, asking each group of refugees they passed if the baby he carried belonged to them.

Finally a woman informed him that she knew the child; that his mother was among the dead of the assaulted village. No, she did not want the infant at any price. There were times when silver was worthless. Though he was a boy, why not lay him down by the roadside as if he were a girl and let nature take its course? There was no way to feed such a tiny baby without its mother.

Lynn overcame that difficulty temporarily by dissolving lump sugar in sun-warmed water and giving it to the infant with a spoon. The trail soon left the top of the ridge and wandered down into a canyon beside a tumbling river, only to climb out again to a wide tableland.

They approached a high-walled farmstead, which at a distance in the clear, exhilarating sunlight, looked as romantic as a medieval castle. But when they gained admittance to the compound it exhibited the usual, dull, misery of toll-driven people. The farmers insisted to stay to the death rather than flee before the scourge of revolution.

A young matron of the family nursed, with her baby girl, the hungry mite Temu had carried all morning. This family was glad to keep the child since he was a boy. Temu added silver to the gift.

"At least, we've given him a continuation of life," sighed Lynn. They were sitting outside in the shade of the farmstead wall, eating the remains of the food in the lunch basket, and giving Peggy and Bula a chance to rest their feet.

The farmer possessed not even one beast of burden that they could buy or commandeer.

"SUNSET MEMORIES"

A Retrospect of a Life spent during the last seventy years of the Nineteenth Century

By LEONARD MARSDEN GARDNER

Friday 3rd

After a most refreshing sleep took an early breakfast and went to the hospital. Was assigned by Mr. Williams to the 2nd Division 5th Corp. A number of wounded are coming in and I prepare to serve them some lemonade. They seemed grateful and expressed their gratitude by smiles and thanks. One remarked that it was the best he had ever drank. He was never before wounded and thirsty in a hospital, and what might under other circumstances have seemed very ordinary was now a luxury. I found in this hospital a young man named Mellinger from Greencastle, Pennsylvania. It is deemed advisable that I remain on the ground to be ready for any wounded that might come in during the night. I put up a small shelter tent, covered the ground beneath it with cedar boughs, put in my blankets and am soon as comfortable as I could wish for in camp. Chaplain Roe, spent a couple of hours with me. I went to bed, had a refreshing sleep and rose up early to begin another day's work.

Saturday 4th

I move around again preparing delicacies for the wounded. A kettle of farina is boiled, a large bucket of lemonade is served out and the work of the day assumes the usual shape, when an order comes from Williams to strike the tent and put everything in the wagon. The supplies are exhausted, others fail to come, and the wagon starts for the White House, on the York River to replenish the stock. The party is broken up for the time. I go to the Second Corp wagon in company with the Rev. Dr. Fisk, who is to find his way to the 6th Corps hospital. A walk of three miles follows. I find the hospital crowded with wounded. A desperate battle occurred at this point of the line on day before yesterday. I pitch my shelter tent again, gather pine boughs for the floor, and though the rain comes pelting down steadily, I am cheerful and happy with a pine wood fire before my door. Williams comes up at nightfall in company with Cole and

EXPECT RECORD POPULAR VOTE ON NOVEMBER 5

50 Million Ballots May Be Cast in Presidential Election

(Copyright 1940 by the Associated Press)

Washington, Oct. 25 (AP)—Heavy registrations throughout the country, particularly in the big cities, indicated today that a history-breaking popular vote of around 50,000,000 may be cast in the presidential election next month.

A compilation of official and estimated registrations in each state disclosed a possible total vote of 49,719,200, or about 37 for every 100 of population.

This figure compares with an actual vote of 45,647,117 in the Roosevelt-Landon contest in 1936, and 39,816,522 in the Roosevelt-Hoover election of 1932.

It is based on an analysis of voter-filings and other data showing 60,576,979 may be eligible to vote in the November 5 elections, or about 45 per cent of the total population of 131,409,881.

80 Million Potential Voters
Comparison of the eligible vote four years ago with the actual vote cast revealed that from 15 to 20 per cent of those qualified remained away from the polls. In some southern states the stay-at-home vote ran as high as 50 per cent. This was taken into account in arriving at this year's estimated vote.

The census bureau estimates the number of "potential" voters this year at 80,528,000. This figure includes natives and naturalized citizens 21 years old and over. It excludes aliens totalling about 3,200,000, inmates of prisons and mental institutions, and voteless residents of the district of Columbia estimated at 450,000.

However, many potential voters never take the trouble to qualify by registering or taking other necessary steps prescribed by the various states.

New York and California, with an aggregate of 69 out of the 531 electoral votes, turned in record-smashing registrations for the coming elections.

New York has an estimated registration of 6,891,232 and an estimated vote of 2,202,000, a gain of 605,602 over the actual vote four years ago.

California's official registration is 4,052,395, including 2,419,625 democrats and 1,458,373 republicans. The state's probable vote this year is calculated at 3,404,000, or 765,118 more than the actual 1936 vote.

New York Reaches Peak
New York city reached an all-time high with 3,388,741 persons qualifying to cast ballots on November 5. That is an increase of 488,557 over 1936 registrations. Women were shown to have caused much of the gain, the board of elections reporting 310,476 more women registrants than in 1936, while the increase in the number of male voters was only 178,081.

Men registrants in New York city totaled 1,856,235; women 1,532,506. The women total is about 45 per cent of the aggregate, compared with 42 per cent in 1936.

The state-by-state analysis of estimated eligible voters, as distinguished from potentials, showed Pennsylvania might cast 4,600,000 ballots this year as against an actual 4,138,105 in 1936. Estimates for other heavy-voting states:

Illinois—Estimated 4,250,000 against 3,956,522.
Ohio—Estimated 3,250,000 against 3,012,425.
New Jersey—Estimated 2,024,000 against 1,820,437.

Indiana—Estimated 1,729,000 against 1,650,897.
Massachusetts—Estimated 2,100,000 against 1,840,357.
Michigan—Estimated 1,945,000 against 1,804,093.
The final figures in each instance are those of 1936.

If onions are strong, slice them and soak them 10 minutes in iced water with a little sugar in it—a tablespoon of sugar to a quart of water. This does not sweeten the onions but does remove some of the strong flavor.

U. S. APPRENTICE PLAN HURRIED IN DEFENSE WORK

Regional Office Placed in State by Labor Dept.

Harrisburg, Oct. 25 (AP)—The United States Department of Labor established a regional office in Pennsylvania today to "step up" apprenticeship systems in private industry to meet a need for skilled workers in the national defense program.

W. J. Moore, department representative, said the office here would aid industries in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

"There have been so many requests in Washington for information and aid in apprenticeship since the national defense program started that we had to expand to take care of it," he said.

"The demand is particularly strong in machine tool industries, all heavy industries employing men in such crafts as tool, and metal workers, die workers, electricians and machinists. The emphasis is largely on the manufacturing plants, but we can't lose sight of the construction trades as well."

The federal office will co-operate with state agencies and the 22 apprenticeship councils in Pennsylvania, he said.

The work is being concentrated in populous cities, such as Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Scranton, Reading, Allentown, Erie, and Altoona, but Moore said "men trained there will move wherever the need for them is serious."

He pointed out that if an industry conforms to apprenticeship standards of federal and state governments and labor's apprenticeship councils, apprentices are exempt from federal minimum wage and hour standards and the plant may obtain government defense orders. The apprentice training is considered as part of the employees' pay while in training, supplementing his lower wage.

"But the apprentices go into production immediately," adding the national defense output, Moore observed.

"The more experience he gets, the more valuable he gets," he said. "Some of the apprentices may become instructors for others, after their training is completed."

benefit of the Lutheran missions of the world. This presentation is in conjunction with the appeal of the National Lutheran Council of United States and Canada. The Rev. Lester M. Utz, pastor of the Church, will have charge of the devotion and will preside for the program.

R. L. VANN DIES
Pittsburgh, Oct. 25 (AP)—Robert L. Vann, negro boy from the backwoods of Ahoskie, N. C., who became a prominent publisher and a national political leader of his race, died last night. He was 61. Vann, born of slave parents, received a law degree from the University of Pittsburgh in 1909 and the following year embarked on a double career as an attorney and newspaper publisher. A founder of the Pittsburgh weekly "Courier," he was its editor from 1912 until his death.

Japanese Submarine Lost in Maneuvers

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—Twelve officers, 38 warrant officers and an undisclosed number of seamen perished when the Japanese submarine I-67 was lost in maneuvers south of Tokyo bay on August 29, the Japanese Navy ministry announced today in a communiqué broadcast by Domei, Japanese News agency.

The communiqué said the I-67 disappeared during a heavy storm and an intensive search over a radius of 100 miles from where she was last seen failed to "yield any hope of locating and rescuing the crew of the ill-fated warship."

"The search continues, however," it added.

Japanese submarines of the size of the I-67—she displaced 1,638 tons on the surface—usually carry about 100 officers and men. When a boat of almost the same size, the I-63, was sunk in a collision February 2, 1938, 81 officers and men were lost. Six officers on the bridge escaped by jumping into the sea as she struck.

French western hemisphere possessions if French collaboration with the axis made such action advisable as a measure of hemisphere defense.

Under the act of Havana, adopted by the 21 American republics last July, a 14-nation committee has been established with emergency powers to assume control of such possessions, and Washington sources said any occupation of these colonies would be handled by U. S. naval forces with the consent of the other republics represented on the committee.

Principal French colonies in the hemisphere are the Caribbean islands of Martinique and Guadeloupe and the territory of French Guiana in South America. There also are the north Atlantic islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon and a few pin-point isles in the Caribbean vicinity.

U. S. attention has been centered on Martinique, refuge of several French naval vessels, including the aircraft carrier Bearn, which has aboard some 100 American-made warplanes. British ships also have been keeping watch in that vicinity.

Amid the diplomatic discussions and conjecture, the German-British air war proceeded apace.
